WILL DECIDE IF CITIZENS WANT CHANGE

Election Tomorrow On Council-Manager Plan Form

HOW TO MARK BALLOT

Poles To Open At 6.05 A. M. and Close At 5.48 P. M. Judges of Election Named.

The voters of Alexandria tomorrow will decide whether or not they want a change in the form of government. They will have an opportunity of deciding whether or not they want the council manager plan or to continue with the present form of city government. The polls will open at 6:05 and close at 5:48 p. m.

Indications are that a large vote will be polled. Practically everything is in readiness for the election.

Considerable interest has been manifested over this election and especially among the women of the city.

The ballots will be marked. "For proposed change in form of municipal government, and "Against Proposed change in municipal form of government."

If you want to vote for the new form you simply scratch out the word "Against." A line drawn through the word "Against" means that you vote for the new form.

The judges and clerks of election by wards will be as follows:

First:—Samuel W. Pitts, T. Alton Moore, Scott Grimm, William E. Moore.

Second:—George A. Harlow, Conrad Schwab, Harrison Kell, James Bradley, M. E. Greene.

Third:—Frank Monroe, O. H. Daniels, Carter H. Smith, Douglas Lindsey, Nelson Snyder.

Fourth:—Thomas Chauncey, Carlin Creighton, John Downey, Geo. Keegan, Wingate Summers.

The voting places will be as follows: First ward, rear of old Elks' Hall; second ward, 110 North Royal street; third ward, Odd Fellows' Hall; fourth ward, Friendship Engine house, South Alfred street.

If the new plan carries, which its proponents confidently predict, five councilmen at large will be chosen by election next June.

The councilmen will take office September 1, 1922, and they will elect a business manager. The councilmen so elected will elect a chairman who will serve as mayor of the city. The councilmen will receive compensation to be determined upon later. The council, however, fixes the salary of the city manager and the council has the power to remove the city manager at any time they may see fit. The councilmen elected shall serve for a term of four years. The chairman of the city council has not the power of veto.

The city manager administers all the city's business affairs under the supervision of the Council, and keeps the Council advised of its needs, financial condition and the money necessary to run the several departments of the city government, and has direction and supervision of all city improvements, works and affairs. He appoints all officers designated by the Council, and may remove them for neglect, inefficiency or other cause, but must report all removals to the Council at their next meeting. He has no power to appoint any of the financial or legal officers, or the clerical force and other attendants of the Council; these are appointed by the Council, and include the Corporation Attorney, Auditor, Clerk of Gas, and the Collector of Taxes, and are subject to control and removal by the Council alone. The City Manager is required to see to the enforcement of all City Ordinances and to the performance of their duties by all city officers, and to keep the Council constantly advised of these matters.

ALL READY FOR "SHIP AHOY"

Finishing touches only, remain to be put on the mamouth "Ship Ahoy!" production, which the Old Dominion Boat Club is staging in the Opera House next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. This farcial musical comedy from the pen of the late Junie McCree, had a long run New York City with the famous Sidney Drew in the role of Billy Brady, the young college boy, who had four front teeth knocked out in a football game and is destined to wear false ones. The fun begins when he looses his only set of teeth. Allan Roberts, who is well known for his histronic ability displayed in "Springtime," "Katcha-Koo," and "Oh! Cindy" is in Sidney Drew's part and handles it to prefection.

Besides 40 other leading characters the play is supported by chorusees of Bees, Sailors, Yatching Girls, Nymphs, Witches, Sweethearts, Tourists, Cabin boys, Antidotes, Overall Girls and Fishing Girls.

At 8 p. m., of the same day a meeting for Nation-Wide Campaign workers, both men and women, will be held in Christ Church, to be addressed by the Rev. Dr. William D. Smith, of Richmond, who will answer any questions that may be asked. In St. Paul's Church laymen will serve as "Four Minute Speakers," on the details of the campaign at each Sunday service until November 20, the date of the annual 'Every Member" canvass, and literature will be personally carried to every home by a band of visitors.

FUNDING BILL TO BE URGED FOR PASSAGE

President Will Renew Representations To Congress for Prompt Action

OPPOSED BY LABOR

Results of Unemployment Conference to be Put Before Public This Week

President Harding is expected within a short time to renew representations to Congress in behalf of the railroad funding bill, enactment of which is considered important in the administration's program of reviewing industry and reducing unemployment.

At the same time the President is considering the advisability of asking further Federal appropriations to aid the States in building roads, with the object of providing employment.

Recommendations that both these steps be taken were made by the President's unemployment conference. Road building funds were formally urged.

A resolution favoring passage of the funding bill was prepared and

READY FOR SERIES

Giants Have Sold Out Their Share of Seats

New York, Oct. 3.—New York is doing an imitation of a man holding his breath from Sunday night until 3 o'clock of the Wednesday afternoon next ensuing, which no man has ever done yet so far as the A. A. U., records go. From the pop-eyed, like-to-bust expressions seen in the subways and delicatessens, where New York spends Sunday evening, New York seems about to fail in the effort, but you never can tell. There's reserve power in a town that dines out of slot machines. There has to be. So New York may come through to Wednesday afternoon and the world series without blowing up like a $9 tire on a nine-in family flivver.

There were about 15,000 people at the Polo Grounds yesterday watching the Yanks toy with the Red Sox, of Boston, and somewhat tarnished glory. They were somewhat like 15,000 mourners just settin' 'round the parlor waiting for the insurance man to arrive with the cheque on account of the dear departed's departure. They sat there with lips compressed and fingers interlaced. There was some sort of a ball game or some such going on out on the field, but these legatees preserved a decent outward respect for the memory of the regular baseball season that had left New York as sole heir to the undivided whole of a regulation, cork center world series.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks brought his team through to the pennant in spite of opposition, within his club almost as strong as that offered by the Indians. There was a time during the summer campaign when Huggins, suffering from painful illness, almost lost his job.

STATE NEWS

Christiansburg—What is claimed the largest crowd that ever heard any speaker for twenty years greeted E. Lee Trinkle, democratic nominee for governor when he arose to address the voters of Montgomery county today. Senator Trinkle was in fine spirits and launched into a vigorous defense of the record of his party both state and national. He made a stinging attack upon the record of the republican party, both state and national and said he did not blame his opponent from refraining to allude to his party's past. He spoke for nearly two hours and was given the closest attention by the large audience which was composed of almost one-third women, and several republicans. Mr. Trinkle was frequently and loudly applauded.

Winchester — Workmen cutting down a "hump" in a street near the new Handley Schools today unearthed a large number of Civil War relics, including many minie balls, a canteen and buttons from Confederate and Union uniformes.

Veterans said they did not regard the finds as extraordinary, pointing to the fact that no town North or South saw more actual warfare than did Winchester, which was taken and retaken about eighty times during the conflict. The relics will, however, be placed in the school museum.

Bristol—Exhibits entered at three fairs this year by the Washington County Baby Beef Club, have been successful in showing that boys of Washington county can produce show cattle that will win.

The eight calves shown by eight boys of Washington county have won 332.50 in premiums and two of the calves are still on the circuit. The calf winning first at both the Marion and Abington fairs was the shorthorn owned by Oliver Huff. This calf stood second in the Shorthorn class at Roanoke, and is now in Richmond to be shown at the fair next week.

Charlottesville—The official program of the unveiling of Keck's bronze equestrian statue of "Stonewall" Jackson, in Jackson Park, this city, on October 19, has been arranged and is worthy of that interesting event and of the great assembly which it is now certain, will assist at the ceremonies These will be under the auspices of the Grand Camp, Confederate Veterans of Virginia; Virginia Division United Confederate Veterans, and the Virginia Division, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Lexington—Washington and Lee University has been mentioned in the will of the late Mrs. Lucy Anderson, of Franklin W. Va., and an endowment of $10,000, established in memory of her son, Herbert Anderson, of the class of 1907. The bequest is to be known as the Herbert Anderson Memorial fund and the principal used for the purchase and installation of and organ in the University Chapal, which will soon be enlarged.

Fredericksburg — Fredericksburg was honored today with the presence of President Warren G. Harding for the first time since he became President of the United States. Mr. Harding was once before in this city, several years ago, when he made a tour of the battlefields of this section.

KIWANIS HOME

Hear Able Address By Harry M. Karr, of Baltimore.

Alexandrinas who attended the Kiwanis Capital District meet in Norfolk have returned. They report having had a most enjoyable time and being kept busy with the entertainments and trips given in honor of the delegates.

The Alexandrian Kiwanis Club had as delegates, Col. Julian Y. Williams, J. Randall Caton, E. A. Felkeller, K. E. Wallace, Morris Ilich, and Hunt Roberts. Others who attended from here were Miss Cora Cochran, Mrs. H. B. Caton, Mrs. Mrs. Carroll Pierce, Mrs. E. E. Feldkeler.

Harry M. Karr, of Baltimore, president of the Kiwanis International, made an able and masterly address before the meeting Saturday morning.

Mr. Karr is anxious to have the organization of which he is the head, concern itself actively in relieving unemployment this winter and is the author of the unique suggestion that every one of the 60,000 Kiwanians in the United States employ one extra man in his business during the winter months.

Speaking before the capital district convention at the Monticello Hotel, Mr. Karr urged that every Kiwanian in the district adopt such a policy and take one extra man into his business establishment. He said he is urging the same course on Kiwanians in all parts of the country.

DREADNAUGHTS WIN

The Dreadnaughts yesterday defeated the "Wonder Team" of the Shamrock Athletic Club of Washington by the score of 6 to 5. The batting of Devers, Alexander and Giles for the Dreadnaughts was a feature of the game. Frye pitched one of the best games he has ever pitched in Alexandria, all the runs scored on his team being the result of errors. This game was especially interesting in that the Shamrocks are the runners-up in the Independent Championship race.

Batteries; Dreadnaughts, Frye and Stephens.

Shamrocks, Beall and Connors.

COMPLETE MILITARY MANOEUVERS

Harding Sees Realistic Sham Battle at Wilderness

BOMBARD "ENEMY"

Night Attacks By Bombing Aeroplanes. Sight of "Battle" Abounds In Historic Interest.

(By Isaac Gregg)

(Staff Correspondent of the Gazette with the East Coast Expeditionary Force)

Camp Harding, Wilderness Run, Va., Oct. 3.—On the bloody battlefield of the Wilderness where the armies of the North and South fought for supremacy and within a five mile radius of Salem Church, Chancellorsville, Bloody Angle, Spotsylvania Courthouse, Hamilton's Crossing and Falmouth, the United States Marine Corps Expeditionary Force stationed at Quantico, Va., under command of Brigadier General Smedly Butler has just completed a series of manouvers which will go down in military history as a credit not only to this fighting branch of Uncle Sam's military froces, but the lessons learned will serve a vital purpose in case this country should ever be forced to once more take up arms against a hostile nation.

Two weeks prior to the start of the manoeuvers, preparations had been under way at the Wilderness for the pitching of the camp. Offi. cers and men of the United States Engineers had been busy laying out the camp site, erecting the lines of communication and placing the old battlefield in a perfectly sanitary condition in order to guard against possible disease or epidemic. And when the marines, nearly 4,000 strong, "hiked" from their headquarters at Quantico, a distance of over 50 miles, everything was in readiness for them to take possession immediately. Not a single detail had been overlooked by the trained men of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

But the task of transporting this vast number of troops was no easy one. Equipment of all kinds had to be hauled over the dusty roads to the camp site, which included the heavy artillery, machine guns, tanks and other weapons of modern warfare

PHONE SERVICE

Rural Subscribers to Get Service Soon

Telephone subscribers on the rural lines near Alexandria who have felt that their lines were too crowded will hav relief within the next few days according to H. J. Clarkson, local manager of the C and P. Telephone Company.

In line with its policy of improving service wherever possible the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company is completing the erection of new lines that will effectually take care of the present congestion, as well as provide for future demands for service.

So extensive has been the growth of the Alexandria office that most of the rural lines have been overcrowded for sime time. Many rural subscribers requested service and in order to grant it, the company during and immediately after the war was forced to crowd the existing lines until there were from 12 to 18 stations on some of them. This has been found too many for the most efficient service and since conditions now permit the construction of additional facilities the number of stations per line will be virtually in half.

Twelve additional lines are being run into the rural sections to serve subscribers. This will enable the company to reduce the number of stations on a line to eight or less, and on a few lines there will be only four at present.

The policy of the company is to permit no more than 10 stations on a line that is less than five miles in length or 12 on a line of more than five miles, wherever it is possible Since all the Alexandria rural lines will have less than either maximum any new requests for telephone service can be handled by the company without hampering existing service or congesting any of the lines.

The work of relieving the lines was started the early part of September of same month it is expected. There and will be completod about the end will no inconvenience to service in the meantime.

Bible Thought for Today

THE WAY TO PEACE: —Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace: thereby good shall come unto thee.—Job 22: 21.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, October 3.—Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska has announced that he will see former President Wilson some time this week in regard to the reservations to the German treaty which will be offered by the Democratic minority.

These reservations are to be framed along the line of expressing the Democratic view of participating in the treaty of Versailles and no separate peace with the Germans and the former President will be asked to review them after they have been written for the purpose of suggesting changes in them, if need be. Because Mr. Wilson was the sponsor of the Versailles treaty and the leader in the movement opposed to desertion of the Allies by a separate treaty, it is regarded as only fair by Senator Hitchcock that the opinion of the former President should be asked on the reservations.

Indications are that the reservations will command virtually the solid support of the Democratic minority, excepting of course men like Read of Missouri and Watson of Georgia, but there is little chance for their adoption because they will be opposed by the solid Republican majority.

Apprehensive of Republicans

Many of the Republican irreconcilables, those who fought the Versailles treaty the most bitterly, are beginnig to become somewhat apprehensive of the course of this administration in regard to participation in European affairs. Senator Borah of Idaho, for instance, is charging that the recent decision of Roland W. Boyden, American member of the Reparations Commission, in regard to German debts to Belgium, was in direct violation of the Harding policy of non-entangling alliances.

Senators Moses of New Hampshire, Johnson of California, and probably Brandegee of Connecticut are to make speeches during the course of the treaty debate warning that their votes for the treaty do not mean that they will ever support a policy that permits the United States to become mixed in the various commissions of the Versailles treaty in any way.

It will be remembered that the present treaty carries a reservation to the effect that the consent of Congress is necessary before the President can appoint a member of the Reparations Commission and it is already being charged that President Harding will, as soon as the German treaty is out of the way, send an official request to Congress for the privilege. If he does, he will create a split in the Republican party of large proportions, the irreconcilable Republicans say.

To Discuss Party Lines

Party lines will be rent asunder in the vote on the Borah Panama canal tolls bill on October 10, it is shown by various polls of the Senate. Senator Underwood of Alabama, the minority leader, will support the bill, while Majority Leader Lodge will oppose it. Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska will oppose it, while Senator Lenroot, who was against it when a member of the House, will favor it on his vote.

That the bill will pass there is no question, but it is reliably reported that on orders of the President the bill will be shelved when it reaches the House and not acted on until after the arms conference has adjourned. The reason for this is that the bill is regarded as offensive to the British government which will be a member of the arms conference.

TO SHOW MOVIES

St. Paul's Young Men's Bible Class to Give Second of Series of Moving Pictures

The second of a series of entertainments under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class of St. Paul's Church, for the benefit of their athletic equipment, will be given in the Norton Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening, October 4th, at 8:00 o'clock. The entertainment will consist of moving pictures and music, both instrumental and vocal. The feature picture will be Charles Ray, in "The Pinch Hitter." This star is too well known to need any introduction, and the picture is one that will appeal to any one interested in real clever sport, as it is the story of a base ball club and game. Mrs. Mattie Wade Wools, is expected to favor us with a vocal selection, and all who have heard her know what a treat is in store for them, and those who have not had that pleasure, should take advantage of this opportunity to hear Mrs. Wools sing.

This is a very worthy cause, and all who attend are assured of a pleasant evening's entertainment. Those who attended the first of this series of entertainments, were delighted with the pictures shown at that time, and the films for this week are as good, if not better than the first ones shown. All are good clean pictures and well worth seeing. See advertisement in another part of this paper.

THREATEN TO LYNCH PAIR OF SUSPECTS

Mob Gathers at Montross Jail But is Dispersed By Attorney Mayo

REMOVED FOR SAFETY

Eastwood and Miss Knox Removed To Fredericksburg After threats of Lynching by Residents at Beach.

Fredericksburg, Va., Oct. 3.—Fearing mob violence, Sheriff P. F. Griffith, of Westmoreland county, today brought Roger D. Eastlake and Miss Sarah E. Knox, who are accused of the brutal murder of Eastlake's wife at Colonial Beach last Friday, from Montross, where a mob of 20 are said to have gathered around the jail late last night shouting threats of "lynching."

Few people of Montross knew the accused couple were taken away today, as Sheriff Griffith kept his plans secret for fear an attempt would be made to attack the auto on the road to Fredericksburg. Griffith was accompanied by E. S. Walker, deputy sheriff. Both were heavily armed.

The trip was made in a closed car over an out of the way route. Instead of coming by the way of the Northern Neck highway, the journey was made over the Tidewater trail.

Griffith arrived here shortly before 4 o'clock with his prisoners. They were immediately taken to the Fredericksburg jail, where extra precautions are being taken to prevent any attempt of a mob to cheat justice. A special guard has been assigned to duty at the jail.

On the trip here, Miss Knox, who is a graduate nurse, protested her innocence to Sheriff Griffith. Eastlake remained silent.

Colonial Beach, Va., Oct. 3.—Intervention by W. T. Mayo, commonwealth attorney, last night halted a mob of 20 men, which was moving toward Montross with the expressed intention of lynching Roger D. Eastlake and Miss Sarah E. Knox.

Five automobiles driven in close formation approached the little jail and upon reaching a point several hundred feet distant, the attackers leaped from the cars shouting threats upon the lives of the prisoners.

Each carried a revolver or a gun. It was at this point that Attorney Mayo, who had been in waiting under cover of shadows in front of the jail, flashed on the headlights of his automobile and stepped into the glare, demanding to know what they intended to do.

Stunned by the suddenness of the appearance of an opposing force, teh attackers halted, but only for a short time when they again threatened to attack the jail, the leaders declaring that "they were going to see that justice was done in this case."

Mayo, still holding his position near the door of the jail, did not retreat, but informed the men that "justice would be done," but that it would be meted out in the way that they seemed to desire it.

Seeing that Mayo was, determined in his effort to prevent the intended lynching, the mob leaders again halted and after deliberating among themselves, and with the aid of pleas for sanity from Mayo, they re-entered the automobiles nearly an hour later and departed.

Mayo and a hastily gathered guard consisting of about a dozen armed citizens remained at positions surrounding the jail until daybreak.

Feeling ran high throughout this region when the coroner's jury held the two on a charge of murder. They were accused of having hacked their victim with a hatchet, stabbing her, and shooting her. Men and women collected on the streets, and threats of lynching were made. The prisoners were moved to Montross, as a result of this.

Eastlake is 33, and a petty officer in the navy. Miss Knox, is a graduate nurse.

Y. M. C. A.

The four letters which head this editorial are known the world over as a symbol of practical Christianity. During the stress of the world war they were abbreviated to the one letter "Y." We have just received the Year Book of the Association, with its reports from May 1, 1920, to April 30, 1921, being a summary of the activities of the Young Men's Christian Associations of North America.

The Book is replete with interesting statistics. There are 2,120 Associations in this country and Canada, with a membership of 935,581, as against 868,892 in 1920, and 720,468 in 1917. The total membership for the world is well above 1,500,000. The activities are carried on in more than twenty countries by the North American Associations, and with other national auspices, about forty countries in all are taken care of.

The Association claims that more young men and boys were enrolled in the educational classes last year than in all of the Protestant Christian Colleges of North America. Altogether the year has been one of great growth and progress, and the outlook for the future is most encouraging.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

It is to be hoped that some time the situation that has prevailed in our public schools for several years past will be improved. We refer particularly to the greatly overcrowded condition. The number of pupils per teacher should not be more than 35. But this is exceeded in the majority of instances, some teachers having charge of as many as 50 and 55 pupils. The half-time system also prevails again this year which means that many of Alexandria's children are being handicapped in their education. That this is an injustice nobody will deny. Likewise nobody will take the blame.

There should be, in our opinion, only five members on the school-board, and if lack of proper educational facilities is due to the citizens, then these five members should bestir themselves day and night to the awakening of a sluggish electorate who by its neglect is robbing our little ones of their indisputable heritage.

It is true that the new building provided for will alleviate matters. But why was it not projected long ago? The years of neglect prior to its provision cannot be restored to those children who have had to suffer in consequence. Their whole lives may be influenced by the fact that they were not as well equipped as others with whom they may come in competition in the vocational struggle s of the future. Education is quite the most serious matter with which a city has to do. For this, if for no other reason, the parents of Alexandria should be alert and insistent in their demands that their public servants be not neglectful in their duties.

Another suggestion seems pertinent here. When the contracts are let for the construction of the new school building, the work should be done by Alexandria labor. We do not mean by this, that an exorbitant price should be paid, but that, other things being equal, the money should be spent in our own town, and the merchants and tradespeople of the city benefited by the augmented current in the channels of home trade.

BLUE BUT TRUE

We publish elsewhere today an editorial from our namesake, the Charleston Gazette, which, while it takes perhaps too depressing a view of the situation of our country today, is nevertheless a statement of fact that cannot be gainsaid. It utters truths which, though severe, are nevertheless wholesome on that very account. We commend it to the attention of our readers.

Tr inkle's Keynote Speech

Now let us go from candidate to convention. The Norfolk convention called itself entirely white. Its dominating forces saw fit to apply the whitening process by deliberately disfranchising the colored Republican voter so far as his rights to participate in the councils of the Republican party are concerned. They were brutally frank in avowing their purpose to rip the colored man from the body of Virginia Republicanism, and this they did by a scheme of impudent political lawlessness. Why did they resort to that extremity? I charge that shallow political opportunism inspired. If it did not inspire, why was the process delayed for half a century. The Republican party had called in elections when courting and enjoying negro support, therefore the experiment was launched to try out its fortunes under pretense that the negro was expelled from its ranks. The object in view was not lofty principles; it was cheap expediency. But it so happened that the builders of the Republican platform at the Norfolk convention and Mr. Anderson himself were not sufficiently crafty to conceal the cloven foot. Instead they exposed when declaring in favor of the removal of substantially all restrictions upon suffrage. Should this purpose prevail every adult negro, male and female, in Virginia without a record of criminality or insanity would have the right to vote, and throughout the black belt of Virginia, especially in counties where the colored population outnumbers the white, the race question in its political aspect would again assume perilous prominence. Thus while Mr. Anderson and his followers prate about taking the negro question out of politics, they are actually advocating measures which would plunge the negro into politics, and thus bring about that deplorable race situation from which the Democratic party, after a quarter of a century of political battle, finally freed the State. Candidly, I would much prefer not to bring this charge, but the known facts and the irrefutable logic of the Republican position compels me to accept to conclusion which I have just stated, and to warn the patriotic electorate of the state against the tendency which, under the leadership of Mr. Anderson, the Republican party is now seeking to establish.

Do We Need Two Parties?

My opponent claims that it would be to the best interest of our State and the South for the people to be more evenly divided between two leading parties. Many objections may be mentioned to this:

1st—Virginia, like all of the States of the South (the status being different in the North) has to deal with the negro, an important factor in political and social affairs.

This condition must ever be faced and considered, and therefore, that which at first though might seem to be the a wise political suggestion may be found, on serious consideration, to be extremely unwise.

2nd—If the two leading parties in Virginia were more equal in numbers, that of itself would make Virginia a doubtful State in national elections, and necessarily result in a very large expenditure of campaign funds by the wealthy Republicans of the North, who have but little thought and perhaps knowledge of our real racial problems and conditions, and only act upon the principle of party victory.

Thus would follow corruption of politics, the buying of votes, the debauchery of the electorate, and the placing of an unfair burden upon the less wealthy Democracy of our State to maintain an approximately evenly divided vote.

Virginia, comparatively speaking, has been strikingly free from the corrupt use of money in politics.

A nearly evenly divided support for the two leading parties, Democratic and Republican, as much as we hate to admit it, would tempt both in time of political distress or danger, to use the negro for their present purposes of victory in that political campaign and cause them to be forgetful of future results. We all must, and, I am sure, want to be relieved of such happenings.

3rd—Republicans now claim to have eliminated the negro from their party.

If this be true, and the white people should be anywhere near evenly divided in their political affiliations, this would mean that the negro would hold the balance of political power, which is said to be the case now in Ohio Indiana and West Virginia, with conditions familiar to many Virginians

So far as I know, all of the Eastern and Western States now classed as Republican maintain mixed schools Do We Want These Conditions to Exist in Virginia?

4th—While the Republicans claim to have eliminated the negro, they propose, and their candidate for Governor is an ardent supporter of the proposition, to abolish the poll tax as a pre-requisite to voting and to remove other restrictions on the right of suffrage. This manifestly is proposed as a "sop" to the negro voters; and if accomplished, would undo the good of the suffrage article of our Constitution, and would really jeopardize the white supremacy in a large part of the State, if not in the entire State.

The suffrage article of our Constitution was worked out with great care, and with especial reference to the characteristics of the negro race, and its provisions were framed, without violating the Federal Constitution, to eliminate, as far as possible, the negro as a voter. In this respect, the Virginia suffrage article of the Constitution is said to be the BEST of any State in the South.

THE NEED FOR STATESMANSHIP

No one feels like nagging the present administration of the government; but the press did not make these conditions nor can it avoid responsibility for keeping the people advised. This paper is a booster, when there is anything to boost; but it refuses to be a plain, common liar through fear of the unfavorable comments of some officeholders. The only thing left to boost now is the good sense of the American people, th vast resources of the country and the growing conviction that, however unwise have been the processe of this campaign of deflation, th bulb in the political thermometer has struck the bottom. Things have got ten about as bad as they can be ma and it is logical to reason that wor cannot be made worse. Since thing must always change, and the extrem of hard times has been reached, t next change ought to be for the better. The oil people, the developers, have been held up and shaken loose from about $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000. The coal people have lost many times more than they spent to elect a President and a governor; the lumber dealers have lost nearly every thing but patriotism and honor; while the farmers have paid a king's ransom and about as much as the cost of a year's war to try to get a tariff tax in their granaries or bank accounts. Over five million workers are idle, with nothing to do, because, in a moment of passion, or in fear of a miserable lie told about sending the boys back to Europe, they elected a Penrose stand-patter, who called Roosevelt a "Benedict Arnold," who cannot show a vote ever cast for a progressive measure to help the masses.

The people are beginning to open their eyes and to see that Mellon, of the treasury department, is as much fitted for that office as Henry Ford would be to decture on biology at Oxford. This is not because Mellon is not a successful business man, but because he is trained and accustomed to deflate everything till he gets ready to buy it. He is of the trusts, by the trusts, for the trusts. He has no conception of the needs and struggles of the small developer, the farmer, the trader, the merchant or the laboring man. He thinks in millions and of Wall street. The stock-ticker, not supply and demand, is his barometer. The country, rich in resources, permitted a few big railroad and stock-ticker magnets to grab the government, and this crowd has bought up the small fellows at "deflation" prices; and, in the process, business has been knocked "silly." But the irony of this disgusting mixture of incompetence and trust government is to be found in the claim that the country is "readjusting." Yes it is readjusting, but readjusting from what deflation has done to it. To be sure, if a reckless or drunken driver runs a car into the ditch, he must "readjust," but he would hardly go around bragging about it.

The farmers, business men and working people have been squeezed and fleeced out of enough money during the last eight months to pay the entire war debt. This money has enriched the "deflationists," and that is as easily shown by the facts and figures as it would be to prove tha our state capitol burned in January. These political schemers refuse to discuss it. They ignore the figures. They have their backs to the wall, their feet under the mahogany and their hands on the purse strings. They have "deflated" the country, and now look at it! The country is emerging and it would respond rapidly if the would permit it. Nothing but the tongue lashings of a scornful people will move that bunch that has controlled congress since March 4, 1919.

Winter approaches with more people out of employment than was ever known in this country before. It would seem that this sad plight of the country would stir Washington to do something worth while. Something broader in statesmanship than helping railroads get all the money of the treasury outgh to suggest itself to the congressmen and senator, soon to reassemble after a month's "vacation." The people ought to meet in their respective voting precincts and petition congress to relieve them o taxation, stop the pipe line from the treasury to railroad coffers, shake off the deflationists and permit supply and demand to operate. The country wants to do business, Squeezed, wronged, "deflater" as it is; it can go forward with the first constructive plan. But how long, oh, how long, must a distressed people be told that generalities, in big words, must suffice for statesmanship.—Charleston Gazette.

Simple Modern Interiors Seek Colonial Furniture Which Creates Old Fashioned, Homelike Atmosphere

By DOROTHY ETHEL WALSH.

COLONIAL furniture is popular chiefly on account of its simple charm, but also because it adapts itself to many interiors.

By that I do not mean that it will look well in all rooms. It is not suited to elaborate rooms such as those of French design, nor does it fit into the stolid early English type of room.

But the average American home is not of a definite period design. We have discarded the habit of slavish imitation and have evolved a style of combining designs which may be known to posterity as "Twentieth Century American," who knows? Then will the arguments of critics who bewail the lack of artistic product from this generation be confounded.

But to get back to Colonial styles. I use the term in its accepted sense. It is a bit ambiguous because we use it too generally. However, to most of us it means that period associated in our minds with our grandmothers' or great-grandmothers' homes.

The modern bungalow of to-day seems to have little in common with those old-time homes, but simplicity is the bond between them. Though the former was large, spacious and dignified it was simple, and in the American cottage simplicity is paramount.

Therefore, although the bedroom which the artist has pictured, harbors an old-fashioned miss with hoopskirts, a modern girl in a simple straight-lined frock could be substituted without appearing incongruous.

French period furniture which requires pretentious surroundings gives place to Colonial in homes of moderate means.

The room shown is worth describing, its dainty color scheme being the best possible for a bedroom in an unpretentious but livable home. The bed covering is made of dimity with a light green background and small pink flowers. The lining of the bed draperies is of plain pink lawn. The oval rag rugs are pink and white, and at the windows ruffled dotted Swiss curtains are looped back in an old-time manner.

In the oval sketch a gate-legged table does duty in the dining room, and rush-bottomed ladder-back chairs harmonize well with it. This room is also suited to informal living purposes, yet it has dignity.

In the upper drawing you will see one of those cupboards beloved by our grandmothers. How they enjoyed arranging a display of their "best" china on the shelves. This china was sometimes blue and white, sometimes lustre, but it was cherished as though it were gold. The shelves were open, yes, but never was dust allowed to accumulate. Household duties absorbed much time in those days.

Another article of Colonial furniture, dear to the modern housewife's heart, is the Martha Washington sewing table. This little table is compact, graceful and very useful. Another favorite is the spinet desk. This, of course, is an old time article changed to suit modern needs, but in the process it has lost none of its original charm.

In speaking of old time furniture it would not be fair to neglect that old "standby," the Windsor chair. "When in doubt use a Windsor chair" might well be the slogan of the home decorator. Of course I am still considering simple interiors, and for such nothing in the way of an odd chair fits in so well as a Windsor.

READY FOR FALL TRADE

With a complete line of autumn and winter stock, all of which has been carefully selected, and with articles to please the most fastidious Bendheim's, 417-419 King street, is ready, as usual, to serve the public. Their stock for the coming season is more diversified than ever, several new departments being added to the already large stock usually carried by this firm.

A trip through this store, from basement to top, reveals a stock of an endless variety in ladies' wearing apparel, dry goods and housefurnishings.

Irvin Diener, genial proprietor of this establishment, today carried a representative of the Gazette through this well appointed department store and judging from the enormous variety of articles on display in their show rooms they have not overlooked anything in their line of merchandising that the average shopper wants. Space would not permit going into details of this enormous stock. They have on the fourth floor a host of rare specimens of china, crockery ware and hand painted china, electric lamps and other things, all of which are of the latest creation and most serviceable and many of which would make suitable wedding presents. The prices of these articles have dropped said Mr. Diener and "today we are ready to sell our goods far below Washington prices." Continuing said Mr. Diener, "We have no fear of Washington competition. Their overhead is so great that we can overcome their prices on every article of merchandise in our house and we invite comparison."

The latest added to their department is what has been designated "Bargain Basement." The name chosen certainly is most appropriate. Here are to be found odds and ends from the various departments in addition to a serviceable stock of cooking utensils and other articles which the firm heretofore did not carry owing to lack of floor space. This department only opened up a week ago tomorrow. From its inception it has proved one of the most popular departments in the store and a visit to the "Bargain Basement" is a rare treat when it comes to obtaining real honest to goodness bargains. Judging from the prices on the articles in this department, the death of old high cost of living is here to stay and its death was administered right here in this basement.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Martha Frances Simpson, 62 years old, died yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital. Besides her husband she is survived by several children. Her funeral will take place at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from her late residence, 119 South Henry street, and burial will be in Bethel cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret T. Rauch took place this afternoon from the Second Presbyterian Church. Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. John Lee Allison, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church and burial was in the Methodist cemetery.

Funeral services for Hazel C. Coombs, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Coombs, who died yesterday, were held this morning at the home of her parents, 717 South Lee street, Rev. L. F. Kelly, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, officiating.

COMPLETE MILITARY MANEUVERS

not to speak about the thousands of tents and other material necessary as a part of such an expedition. But there was not a single hitch and the whole army moved with clock like precision.

In the presence of the President and Mrs. Harding, Major General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps, Secretary of the Navy Denby, Governor Westmoreland(Davis, of Virginia, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and a number of distinguished officers of the army, navy and marine corps who had participated in most of the battles in France, the famous Fifth and Sixth Regiments of marines gave a realistic representation of how they went over the top at Belleau Wood and in the Argonne during the progress of the expeditionary force sham battle on Saturday afternoon. Not the least interesting of the groups of spectators who watched with keenest delight the different manoeuvers of the marines over the wide expanse of territory embraced in the battlefield of the Wilderness was the little band of grizzled veterans of the War Betwen the States, men, who, fifty-seven years ago, fought for what they believed were their rights and their interests. The President performed a very gracious act when he turned to, the veterans of the North and South and said:

"Let the Blue and Grey mingle together."

The sham battle was fought on plans prepared by the Marine Corps staff school. It represented a landing on an island by American marines under the cover of the guns of an American fleet The shore line of the island was represented by Wilderness run, the tiny stream which was defended by the gallant General Lee against the attacks of General Hooker in the battle of Chancellorsville The attacking marines were drawn up on the south side of the stream, occupying many of the positions held by Lee's army

At the zero hour guns on the heights to the south, representing the guns of an American fleet, bombarded the positions held by the "enemy" on the north side of the run and threw smoke shells in a thick line about 500 yards from the "shore" When the cloud of smoke from these had grown dense the marines "landed" by the simple process of crossing to the north bank of the run and. forming under the smoke screen, charged to the north up the hills occupied by the "foe."

Forty-five minutes after the battle began the umpires announced that the first objectives had been taken The attacking force then dug in, and the reserves were launched from carefully prepared strategic positions against the strong points of the enemy's line to complete the work of cleaning up and consolidating the line.

The artillery was landed and hurried to positions commanding points still held by the enemy, and the second phase of the attack was begun, in which the principal fortress of the "enemy," was cut off by the artillery and infantry fire, and the way prepared for its final capture by shock battalions.

On Saturday evening a night attack by bombing airplanes on the silhouette of a battleship was made in which a squadron of giant Martin bombers of the marine aviation force, accompanied by flights of scout planes, engaged in a duel with the Marine Corps anti-aircrfat batteries equipped with newly invented devices for finding the range of airplanes in the air.

The battlefield of the Wilderness and surrounding territoy over which the marine corps carried on its manoeuvers abounds in more historical connection with respect to the War between the States than any other part of the country. It was near here that the immortal "Stonwall" Jackson, pride of the Confederate forces, fell, wounded in the arm by a stray bullet, said to have been fired by one of the South Carolina troopers. A granite shaft marks the spot where Jackson fell and where his arm was amputated. General Jackson was hurried to Richmond after he was mortally wounded and died some time later as a result of pneumonia.

Then there is the city of Fredericksburg, the home of Mary, mother of George Washington, first president of the United States. The Rising Sun Tavern, the stopping place of Lafayette, Washington and other colonial celebrities is located here. There are 15,294 soldiers buried in the national cemetery at Fredericksburg, of which number only 2,500 are known. The Washington Farm is within a stone's throw of Fredericksburg It was here that George was raised to manhood, and according to the legend in our histories, it was on this farm that the General chopped down the famous cherry tree and threw a silver dollar across the Rappahannock River.

At Fredericksburg, and within 15 miles, more great armies manoeuvered, more great battles were fought, more men were engaged in mortal combat and more officers and privates were killed and wounded than in any similar territory in the United States. It was John Paul Jones, a Fredericksburg man, who raised the first flag over our infant navy in 1775.

Incidentally, the tallest and most imposing monument erected to a woman stands at Fredericksburg to the memory of Mary Washington.

Yesterday afternoon, Major General James G. Harbord, Assistant Chief of Staff of the Army, and who commanded the Second Division at the battle of Bellau Wood, in which were included the Fifth and Sixth Regiment of Marines, reviewed the troops from the hills of the Wilderness. The Presidential party had left earlier for the return trip to Washington and this morning at 2 a. m., the signal was given for the return of the marines to their station at Quantico. The Wilderness, once more resembled a cleared field.

Dear Editor:

Heretofore, Virgmians have been content to talk quietly among themselves of the glories of their past. Perhaps they felt that the vein was too rich and too deep to make an attempt to open it here and there. They have been satisfied to know that it was pure gold from end to end.

Today, however, with the pendulum of time swinging ever towards the material, Virginians feel that the amount is ripe to uncover some of the rich content of that vein. What they have held precious among themselves they are now willing to share with the world, and to this end every man and woman in whom the blood of Virginia throbs will unite to celebrate in a great historical Pageant to be held in Richmond in May, 1922, the most important event that has ever transpired on this continent—the landing of the English speaking race at Jamestown, Virginia, in the year of our Lord and of his majesty James II of England, 1607.

There is not a foot of ground in Virginia that is not historic. To read the names of her counties is to read history, and each of these counties and every village, town and hamlet will depict in some fashion, by float or tableau, in spoken word or song, the part it has borne in the history of Virginia.

The May Pageant will serve to weave into a resplendent whole the scenes that have been enacted in these counties, towns and villages of Virginia during the past three hundred and fifteen years.

The actual participation of hundreds of Virginia people will bring together as pure a strain of the Anglo-Saxon race as exists anywhere today on this Continent.

It will stimulate patriotism by portraying the cost in blood and sacrifice of the establishment of our government from its earliest days to the present time. It will present to the world not only the claims of Virginia to be regarded as the Mother of States, but it will show her fertile and wonderful resources and her rich endowment for future prosperity.

The Virginia Historical Pageant will be given in Richmond the week of May 22nd, 1922, and will be participated in by citizens from every section of the Commonwealth. The Virginia Historical Pageant Association will arrange for this inspiring spectacle, which is sponsored by one hundred civic, patriotic, fraternal and business organizations, in Richmond and many others throughout the State, affiliated for the purpose of presenting to the people of America the fund of historic lore which places Virginia in the fore-front of the States of our great nation.

The Virginia Historical Pageant Association extends a cordial invitation to every American to witness the historical Pageant of May, 1922.

Yours for "Vahispa,"

CALLY RYLAND.

We are living in a time when there is much unrest among the people. It seems very few have learned how to live happy, contented lives. In my missionary work I hear much talk about hard times, in fact I think there is entirely too much talk on this line. I don't find many people suffering for food or clothing or the necessaries of life. Before you complain about hard times just stop and think about the conditions in Russia and some other countries and may be you will be better able to appreciate what God is doing for you. I have a recipe for hard times you might try it and see how it works. I know from experience it works all right in my case and may be it would work all right for you. Be sure you spend your money and time in away that is pleasing to God. The Lord holds us accountable for the way we use every penny. Never spend any money for tobacco. Don't spend money for drugs unless absolutely necessary. I haven't taken a drop of medicine for about 10 years. I find I have much better health since I quit the use of drugs. Never eat animal flesh of any kind, no meat at all, no fowl or fish either, and have better health since I quit 9 years ago. Many think if they don't eat flesh of some kind they will starve but this is a great mistake. The Lord has given us plenty of vegetables milk, butter, cereals and many other good things so meat is not needed. Most physicians I have talked to on this subject say meat eating is the cause of much sickness, and my acquaintance among the medical men is large, as I see many in every city I go into and always try to learn all I can from them and many of them I find very kind and willing to give out information concerning the case of ones health. One should bathe often. I like a cold bath every morning myself and usually take it. I believe in early rising. I usually eat only twice a day but 3 times is better perhaps for some people but be careful you don't eat too much and one should eat slowly and masticate their food thoroughly. My work is house to house missionary work and preaching on street and in jails, hospitals and any place the way opens up. I work hard and enjoy my work. I have learned to love the simple life. I don't care for worldly amusements any more. I try to spend every cent I get in a way that will be pleasing to God. My whole desire is to do what God wants me to do. I have no desire to get rich. I live in poverty and expect to die that way. I have learned to live by faith in God and find it a happy way. I am a converted soldier 17 yeares ago I was living at Fort Hunt. The christian life is a life of separation. We cannot serve God and compromise with sin. We must surrender all to Jesus if we "enter unto rest." Read 4th chap. of Hebrews.

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 30, 1921.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

It would seem as tho the Wash.-Va., R. R. company, in handing out their circular this, Friday, evening were indirectly using an argument against instead of favoring their contest with the bus lines for patronage.

In this evening's circular so freely distributed by the trolly line at the Washington terminal they quote from J. A. Green, General Manager of the Fifth Ave. Coach Co. of New York City: "The bus is not more economical than the trolly car on the basis of cost per passenger carried, which is the only real basis."

As the authority quoted is unquestionably reliable and since the bus lines are operating at a profit will their quotation clearly show that charging but little more than half the charge made by the trolly line for a single fare to Washington, does not their quotation clearly show that the excessive rates charged by the Wash.-Va. line are much too high for a properly financed and organized trolly system? Or, in other words does not their quotation from this reliable authority clearly show that some where in the Wash-Va R. R. Company's overhead costs, their heavy items of expense with which their patrons would not be burdened if their road was financed and organized on a proper business basis?

If their organization is hopelessly burdened with bond and stock interest charges due to over capitalization, or to be frank, the repeated issuance of "watered" stocks, is not the only eventual solution; receivership, reorganization, and proper and just transportation rates?

If eventually, why not now?

FUNDING BILL TO BE URGED

ready for submission. but was withdrawn when serious opposition from the labor element threatened. But leaders in the conference want the funding bill to become law. It would permit the railroads to receive several hundred million dollars which, it is held, would stimulate all industry by reviving the purchasing power of the roads and reduce unemployment in many lines.

The results of the unemployment conference will be put before the country this week. President Harding will mak a personal appeal that recommndations be carried out. Chairmen of the conference committees will address themselves to State and city outhorities, and will outline more details of the conference's plan than heretofore have been made public.

The railroad funding bill, which has passed in the House, is holt up in the Senate because of the legislative jam there, and because serious opposition threatens it from the Democrats, and from the majority as well. Leaders are confident it can be put through when other matters are out of the way, but they expect much argument.

The administration believes ratification of the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary will exert a helpful influence, and is anxious to have them out of the way as soon as possible. The delay until after October 14, after which date debate will be limited, was displeasing, but there was gratificaiton at the assurance that the vote will not be delayed more than a few days after that.

The revenue bill, another important factor in the administration's program, suffers through the attack to be made on the treaties, because they are given priority. But it is believed there will be considerable discussion of it in spite of the precedence of the treaties. Senator Smoot is prepared to advance arguments in behalf of his sales tax early in the week. Most of the committee amendments of importance have been passed over for later consideration, but the way will be cleared to push the revenue bill for enactment once the treaties are ratified.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Hurry Mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

How great a part the sleeve is to play in the Fall fashions is clearly shown in the styles portrayed in this new Fashion Book. The long waist, the straight lines, the lavish use of braid or velvet ribbon trimming and the clever combination of materials, particularly in the two-piece dresses are all exceedingly interesting indications of the season's fashion trend.

RED CROSS GIVES ANNUAL BUDGET

$19,361,657 Allotted for Current Program of Relief and Service.

MILLIONS FOR VETERAN AID

Medical Aid for European Children Will Cost $6,000,000 This Year.

Washington.—Expenditures totalling $19,361,657 for carrying through its program of relief and services in the United States and overseas are outlined in the budget of the American Red Cross for the current fiscal year. This total is more than $5,000,000 lower than the expenditure during the last fiscal year, when the disbursements reached $24,492,741, it is announced at National Headquarters in a statement calling attention to the necessity of continued support of the organization by response to the Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 24, if the vital work of the society is to be effectively carried on.

Outstanding among the items of the domestic budget is the appropriation of $3,689,256 for work in behalf of the disabled ex-service man and his family. This appropriation represents the amount alloted to this work from National Headquarters only and does not take into consideration the millions being spent in chapters for relief of the World War veteran. It is in the chapter that the greater amount is spent in meeting this obligation of the Red Cross, the announcement continues, as manifested by figures of the fiscal year 1920-1921 when the total was approximately $9,000,000, of which $2,692,094 represented the disbursement of National Headquarters while the remainder was the chapters' contribution to this field of Red Cross service.

Vast Work for Disabled

Chief among the sub-divisions of the appropriation for work with veterans is that which concerns itself with assistance to disabled men and women in government hospitals. This item of $1,790,000, an increase of more than $500,000 over the appropriation for the same work in last year's budget, will provide those personal services for the disabled and their families which are indispensable to supplement those provided by the government. The director of the Veterans' Bureau has recently expressed his desire that the Red Cross should continue and extend these "humanizing services." Other items of the appropriation for veterans' relief are proportionately increased. An additional appropriation of $469,600 has been made for Red Cross work in connection with regular Army and Navy hospitals and with the regular Army and Navy.

For disaster relief, the Red Cross has set aside for the current twelve months an appropriation of $543,976, virtually doubling the appropriation for the same purpose for the fiscal year 1920-1921.

More than $2,000,000 is provided for service and assistance to the 3,600 Red Cross chapters by the national organization.

Helping Destitute Children

Other items of the domestic budget include $498,546 for miscellaneous activities, including contributions restricted for special purposes and $768,600 for management. Each of these items represents large reductions over similar appropriations of the previous year.

From a fund of $10,000,000, $5,000,000 of which was contributed through the European Relief Council campaign and $5,000,000 allotted by the Red Cross for child welfare work in Europe, there remains $8,765,108 still available, of which it is estimated that $6,000,000 will be required for this work during the current year. For Red Cross participation in the joint effort to relieve famine conditions in Russia, for final work in the China famine, for Junior Red Cross and other overseas activities including the closing of the old general relief program in Europe $4,978,000 is made available.

In announcing the national budget, the Red Cross makes it clear that the figures do not include chapter expenditures or place any cash estimate on the invaluable service of volunteers in chapters.

What Happened in Des Moines No. 4

Twenty-four hours after street car service had been suspended in Des Moines, merchants began organizing a committee to get it restored.

Business, according to merchants, fell off from 10 to 25 percent because shoppers could not get downtown in buses.

Building practically stopped.

As quickly as the merchants committee was formed, it began using every effort to induce the city council to arrange a referendum vote on a proposal to eliminate buses and give the Street Car Company a living fare.

The Company immediately submitted a service-at-cost plan, and discussion of it began.

Inadequate fares and unrestricted bus competition forced the Des Moines street railway to abandon all city service—over 92 miles of lines—on Aug. 4, 1921.
